Hey Crappie Guy,

Today Joel and I have something really cool to show you that will attract crappie to your spot like moths to flame… but before I get started I just wanted to say “THANKS”!

Thanks to all of you who’ve been taking time out of your day to send me emails and phone calls of praise.

I’m sorry that it’s impossible to respond to all of you, but I’ll try. I am very gracious for your kind words.

There’s much more to come too…

Joel and I have had a great time putting together this free information for you… and we’re thrilled with the outcome of the huge project we undertook to put all his secrets into a huge resource that will be offered in a few weeks.

I think it’s going to blow you away. And almost any crappie fisherman will be able to afford it. You’ll see.

Anyway, there’s plenty of time for that later… we just wanted to give you this cheap, easy, and super effective crappie attracting trick.

You can do it for about 50 cents… and even less!

All you need is an old jar.
This one is awesome, and Joel used this many times when he had a hard time finding them when he was living on his own in the wilderness.

Joel’s 50 Cent Crappie Attracting “System”

The next time you go fishing, take a large clear jar and lid with you.

Step 1:

Rig it so you can suspend it in the water near where you are fishing, especially at night.

Step 2:

Punch holes in the lid for water to circulate.

Step 3:

When you get to your fishing spot, put 6 - 12 minnows in the jar and lower it into the water (on a rope or some other device, so you can recover them) about 4 or 5 feet deep.

Joel’s 50-cent crappie attractor “system” in action. It’s simple, but it works like crazy… and it’s cheap! (Keep in mind, I recommend using a lid that is the same color as the water… just paint it or find one that’s close.)
Now, the reason this one works so well is pretty obvious.

The crappie will see the minnows and think it is an unprotected school, and congregate around them.

Just fish close to the jar. With a live minnow. Better yet, use multiple poles (if legal in your area), all down by the jar.

This one is awesome!

I’d love to hear your comments on this, so send me your success story on this and I’ll share it with everyone, and make you a star! 😊

Make sure to try the other 2 crappie tricks we sent out earlier. If you don’t have them you can get them here by signing up:

I’ve got a bunch more exciting stuff coming your way, so hang tight.

Have a good one.
